SUPPOSE!

Suppose the CLEVELAND people made a poorer Bicycle in '99 than in '98 and so on until in '99 than in '98, do you think the CLEVELAND would be considered the most reliable and honest wheel on the market today? No Sir! When prices are cut in two, the quality must be cut in the same ratio. Remember this when you buy a wheel. Don't make a mistake.

DEATH CALLS THE PRINCESS

The Beloved Kaiulani Passed Away at 2 a. m. Today---The Illness and the End.

THE PRINCESS KAIULANI.

(This picture was made in London and represents the young lady in more robust health than she enjoyed here at any time.)

The beautiful and amiable young Princess Kaiulani, who was heir apparent to the throne of Hawaii, died at 2 o'clock this morning.

The physicians had said for the past week that the condition of the girl was serious, that her illness had taken a bad turn, that the rheumatism was invading the region of the heart, that there was grave danger; but that there were fair prospects of recovery. About 1:30 this morning it came to the pass that the end was expected momentarily and intimate friends were summoned to the bedside.

There was not a long wait for the dissolution. The silver thread by which life had been hanging snapped like the overtaxed string of a fine stringed instrument. And there passed away she who was most beloved of all the Hawaiian race. Kaiulani was the idol of the natives. The mourning will be deep and general. With the foreign population the young lady was a great favorite. She was a leader in social affairs and charitable enterprises.

At the moment of the death, precisely at 2 o'clock there were in the room of the Princess at Alahau, the Walkiki home, the following: Governor A. S. Cleghorn, father of the young lady, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Robertson, Jas. H. Boyd and wife, Miss Kate Vida, Miss Helen Parker, Col. S. Parker, Dr. D. G. St. Walters, Mrs. D. G. St. Walters, Dr. F. L. Miner, Prince David, Lumahelehi, Miss Elsie Robertson and Kaiulani's maid.

One of the two physicians said last evening: "The Princess rested better on Saturday night. She was able to get a little sleep. She had a bad turn Sunday morning, but as the day progressed there was an improvement in her condition. This (Sunday) evening from the beach, exposed herself too long on a rather cool day. The other report was that the young lady had, when still too weak for such a journey, gone with a party for a long ride into the mountains.

Princess Kaiulani was brought back from Hawaii in a hurry by her father and Dr. Walters. It was considered imperative that she be in the city and so located that any number of physicians and nurses would be available.

It was probably on Saturday last that the professional men who had been called began to think that the progress of the disease in the direction of a fatal climax could not be arrested. Drs. Walters and Miner have been at Alahau nearly all the time since Saturday evening.

The full name of the Princess is Victoria Kaiulani Kaiulani Lunalia Kalaninuihahilapalapala. She was born Oct. 16, 1875, and consequently was in her 24th year. Her mother was the Princess Miriam Likelike and her father Governor Cleghorn. At the age of 14 the Princess was taken to England to be educated. At the proper age she was received in the most exclusive circles, and painted, was a finished musician, a linguist and skilled in the etiquette of the gentle folk. All of this time she was the ward of the late Theo. H. Davies, who took the greatest interest in her welfare. When the overthrow of the Monarchy came in 1893, Mr. Davies brought Kaiulani to Washington from England and the young lady made a pronounced impression upon President and Mrs. Cleveland and all others with whom she came in contact. After the pilgrimage no more was heard of the young lady as acting in connection with the political difficulties here.

The Princess returned to her native land on the 9th day of October, 1897, and was received with truly royal honors. Since that time she has lived as a private citizen of the country and conducted herself in such a manner as to win the lasting respect of all people of all political shades of opinion. There have been made many proposals looking to placing her upon the throne, but she has declined at all times to become associated with any movement.

Alahau, the beautiful home of the Princess, is one of the most charming spots in the Islands. Here has been held the court of one adored by friends. She was always kindly, always thinking of others. She was very active here in the Red Cross work, being, with Mrs. Harold M. Sewall, one of the two vice presidents of the society. She interested herself at once in the Hawaiian Relief Society's work and regretted that she was unable to assist in the bazaar and luau of Saturday last.

At different times there have been rumors that the young Princess had a matrimonial alliance in prospect, but these were only idle reports, though there have been a number of suitors for the hand of one so gracious and beautiful. The fortune of Kaiulani is not a large one. She has been in receipt of an allowance from the Hawaiian Government and quite recently the best men in the country to a considerable number petitioned Congress to continue an allowance to one deprived of wealth and exalted position through no fault of her own.

The funeral arrangements will be made this forenoon.

Dr. F. L. Miner gives the cause of death as ex Ophthalmic Gitter and Cardiac Rheumatism. He says that the really dangerous stage was noticed one week ago today. From either ailment there might have been recovery, but the combined assault was too much for one never constitutionally strong.

It is believed that the Princess for the past few days feared that she would die. She made no deathbed statement. What was probably her last word was "Mother" in calling Mrs. Robertson.

BAD WEATHER.

Perhaps the Preface to the Col. Macfarlane Storm.

There were "signs" all of yesterday of Col. Geo. C. Macfarlane's storm. It was a rough, blustery day, with high wind and the air fairly filled with dust till the showers of the evening came fitfully on the wings of the screaming winds.

It was no pleasure to drive yesterday, yet a good many turnouts were seen in commission. A gentleman who came in on the Walkiki road in the afternoon told of the woes of the wheelman. He had seen at one spot on the avenue three cyclists storm bound and wrecked. One had a broken chain, fractured in bucking wind. Another had lost a pedal and the machine of the third seemed to be in a state of general collapse.

It could be seen from town that storms were brewing and breaking in the valleys the entire day. The sea outside the bay looked mad. The surf ran high both on the barrier in front of town and off Walkiki.

In the evening the storm was so bad that it had an effect on the size of the church congregations. A squad of mounted policemen made a trip up Nuuanu valley about 10 p. m. and reported that a heavy downfall of rain was in progress. It was also stated a little later that the waters of Moanalua creek were rising.

The Big Luau.

The benefit luau of the Hawaiian Relief Society was given Saturday afternoon and evening at the Maternity Home grounds. Booths of bewildering beauty and sprang up on all sides. The decorations were lavish. A constant crowd was continually moving around the grounds inspecting the beautiful articles for sale. The luau tables were the center of attraction. Many strangers, who never before had the opportunity of witnessing a luau, were there. At night the grounds looked more beautiful than ever, and the crowd did not lessen. The ladies deserve credit for what was a social and financial success.

Fatal Road Accident.

(Hilo Herald, Thursday.)

About 8 o'clock Tuesday morning Mrs. J. Olson, residing near Honokaa, was run over by a bullock cart and received injuries from which she died three hours later.

It seemed that deceased was on horseback riding in the direction of her daughter's residence near Kukuihaele. In turning a sharp curve in the road she met a bullock team and her horse took fright, rearing and throwing her to the ground. Before the bullock team could be stopped the wheels of the cart had passed over her body inflicting fatal injuries.

The Men's Meeting.

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon was most interesting and entertaining. The fact that Rev. C. H. Yatman was to address the meeting brought out a large crowd of men from all parts of the city. A special chorus under the direction of Prof. Richards rendered several songs in a pleasing manner. The subject of Rev. Yatman's address was "Thoughts for Thinkers," which he handled in a very able manner.

Country House Burned.

The country residence of J. F. Colborn in Manoa valley was burned to the ground last evening. The fire department did not go to the scene as there is no water supply in that vicinity, and they could have been of no avail. It is not known whether the property was insured or not. The origin of the flames could not be learned.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will meet at Central Union church at 2:15 this afternoon.

Only a few more days left in which to get bargains at the great bankrupt sale at L. H. Kerr's. So as to make it more interesting P. D. corns and new millinery will be added to the list of bargains for the next three days. This is a grand opportunity. Don't miss it.
